Crap Justification.

I after the senior secondary in 2021 started by search for bachelors in electromechanical engineering in India, since I want to get into the roots of our family business of electricals. I have handled the business during the time and what I was looking for is the combination of electronics & mechanics and I only found separate majors in electronics engineering or electrical ^{mechanical} engineering. So after the extensive research, I decided to go for the course in USA, which is 100 times ahead in comparison to India & other countries. Finally I appeared for PTE and after applying I received the i20 for fall 2023 intake.
