KAJAL

After completing my Master's in Computer Science, I dedicated time to enhancing my expertise in artificial intelligence and machine learning, fields that ignite my passion. During this period, I undertook personal projects to develop algorithms for various applications, honing my coding skills in Python and TensorFlow. These endeavors provided practical experience in data processing, model evaluation, and optimization. Furthermore, I actively participated in online hackathons and coding competitions centered on AI challenges, which facilitated collaboration with other tech enthusiasts and expanded my professional network. I am now eager to pursue a Master's in IT to deepen my knowledge and contribute to innovative projects in artificial intelligence.
