I observed the rapid growth of technology as AI, automation, and cybersecurity transformed industries. Businesses moved online, smart devices became essential, and data played a key role in decision-making. During this time, I started learning coding and realized how software and apps solve real-world problems. Understanding the increasing demand for tech professionals, I decided to pursue a Bachelor's in Computer Science to develop skills in programming, AI, and data analytics. With numerous opportunities in areas like AI-driven healthcare, secure financial systems, and industrial automation, I am eager to be part of the growing tech industry and contribute to innovative solutions.
