During my gap year, I dedicated significant time to expanding my knowledge of human anatomy and biological sciences. I explored how different body systems function and interconnect, deepening my understanding of physiology, genetics, and healthcare advancements. I read books, and research papers, and followed the latest medical studies to stay updated on new developments in biological sciences. This self-learning experience strengthened my passion for the biological and life sciences field, inspiring me to pursue a Bachelor's in Biology. Through this degree, I aim to gain in-depth knowledge of cell biology, microbiology, and human physiology, preparing myself for a career in biomedical
